Dear Monica

I wanted to express my sincere appreciation for the work done by yourself and the team over the past 3 years. We have progressed a long way with the success of our media exposure and experience with dealing with public relations.

The momentum that the PR has created is really something special. It is measurable in terms of the response we receive from both our customers and suppliers locally and internationally.

The benefit of good PR has given Anasazi a prestigious profile that supports cultivating relationships. When we visit new customers our reputation can easily be established without the usual long "getting to know" process.

Once momentum is built then the level and quality of exposure only improves. It is true that PR does get easier and once understood – it is also a lot of fun.

If I can be of any assistance in support of your business, kindly advise.

Both Monica and our account manager, Lani are wonderful support to Anasazi.

Sincerely

Margaret Butler
Managing Director
